

Electronic Data Interchange

The QMRP™ Electronic Data Interchange module provides the ability to exchange routine business documents electronically (Electronic Commerce) by allowing you to import data to and export data from the QMRP database. This capability allows you to exchange on-line, real-time business documents (such as invoices and purchase orders) between one computer (yours) and another (the vendor's or customer's).

Highlights:

- Electronic Commerce (EC) is made easy with QMRP; when EC data standards emerge, simply adjust the mapping—QMRP does not need to change.
- QMRP has the ability to receive data from Electronic Commerce software programs that generate files by mapping to the QMRP standard format (for example, third-party EDI software or rules-based product configurators).
- Data is exported to an ASCII file which can then be transferred to a customer or vendor using a standard Electronic Commerce software package with mapping capabilities.
- QICInfo is implemented for easy data retrieval.
- Data is validated when the EC transaction is imported. An error log is produced and any reported problems can be corrected prior to updating the QMRP files.
- Customers can be flagged to receive sales invoices by mail (printed), fax, or electronically (each document type can be a different method).
- Vendors can be flagged to receive purchase orders by mail (printed), fax, or electronically.
- Data fields (e.g., user data, item UPC code, EDI item number) that are not used by QMRP are saved for use with other EC transactions.
- Ability to look up orders by transaction number.
